

Production Area

Vineyards extend over a large area between the provinces of Udine and Pordenone, in the Grave del Friuli. This area was created by the floods of the Meduna, Cellina and Tagliamento rivers, which, over the millennia, deposited enormous quantities of calcareous-dolomitic material torn from the mountain by the violence of the waters and dragged downstream along their rivercourse.

Municipality San Vito al Tagliamento

Altitude 30m asl

Soil

The whole area is composed by soil of alluvial origin, characterized by a large stony surface, which enhances the temperature range between day and night thus favoring a marked endowment of aromas in the grapes and flavored and elegant wines.

Production Process

Grapes are harvested, immediately cooled and cryomacerated for 24 to 48 hours to extract the primary aromas. We then proceed with soft pressing and fermentation. 90% of the wine is vinified in steel tank for approximately 12 months, while the remaining part is aged in French oak tonneaux. The two batches are then assembled to proceed with cold stabilization, filtration, bottling and packaging procedures.

Organoleptic Characteristics

Intense straw yellow, the nose is complex with notes of ripe white fruit and white flowers and hints of sage. Full-bodied and fresh wine, characterized by a good sapidity and a persistent floral finish.
